Bibliography: Organic Physical Basis for MCS

Bibliography of all scientific articles, editorials, books, book chapters and reports that support findings of a physical/organic basis and/or that critique findings of a psychological basis for Multiple Chemical Sensitivity disorders.

(excluding those published in journals of Clinical Ecology and letters to editors)

311 Published Through September 1999, Alphabetically Sorted by Author

Compiled by Albert Donnay, MHS
MCS Referral & Resources
618 Wyndhurst Avenue #2, Baltimore MD 21210
Please call (410) 889-6666 to inform us of any additions or corrections.

113. Gibson, P.R. 1997. Multiple chemical sensitivity, culture and delegitimization: A feminist analysis. Feminism & Psychology 7:475

114. Gibson, P.R., J. Cheavens, and M.L. Warren. 1998. Social support in and stratum corneum reactivity to household cleaning products. Contact Dermatitis 34:81-85.

Radiography. 53:85-89.

Searching for syndromes by factor analysis of symptoms [see comments]. JAMA 277:215-222.

hypoguesia with dysgeusia, hyposmia, and dysosmia. A new syndrome. J.A.M.A.
217:434-440.

123. Henry, C.J., L. Fishbein, W.J. Meggs, N.A. Ashford, P.A. Schulte, H.
health risks from complex mixtures in indoor air: a panel overview.
Environ.Health Perspect. 95:135-143.

immunotoxicology and neurotoxicology. J Occup Med & Tox 1:v-x chemical sensitivity. In Multiple Chemical Sensitivities: Addendum to Biologic Markers in Immunotoxicology. AnonymousNational Academy Press, exposed to neurotoxic chemicals. Toxicol.Ind.Health 10:561-571.

effects in humans exposed to a mixture of 22 volatile organic compounds. Proc Indoor Air '93 1:567-572.

Environmental Illness, Multiple Chemical Sensitivities, Chemical Injuries, and Sick Building Syndrome. Noble Press, Chicago, IL.

212. Natelson, B., N. Fiedler, T. Policastro, and H. Kipen. 1996. Preliminary prevalence data on chronic fatigue syndrome (CFS) and multiple chemical

Source: http://www.mcsrr.org/resources/bibliography/organic.html