

Anonymous Complaints Against Dr William Rea

Here we have another case of the “powers that be” going after the professional reputation of any medical professional that has had the courage to advocate environmental illnesses (like Multiple Chemical Sensitivity) as physically real (see American director Faun Kime’s documentary “The Tomato Effect” for another prime example of this).

William J. Rea, MD, is the founder and director of the internationally known Environmental Health Center (EHC) in Dallas, Texas (<http://www.ehcd.com/>) and is one of the worlds most outspoken hero’s on the physical nature of environmental illnesses. Now the Texas Medical Board are going after him in response to “anonymous complaints” received.

Dr Rea has written a letter to his patients to advise them of the present situation and ask for their support. This letter is publicly available for downloading, in PDF format, from our downloads pages at http://www.mcs-international.org/downloads_2.html (file ref: 070) and from Gillian McCarthy’s News page (item 2). Here is a quotation from Dr Rea’s letter:

“Based on secret evidence provided by an anonymous accuser and supported by [an anonymous reviewer the board has recommended that my license to practise medicine be revoked.” [emphasis mine – please download and read Dr Rea’s letter in full].

This situation is utterly unacceptable. MCS International has already been contacted by outraged MCS groups from America and Europe and is contributing fully to the mass complaints currently being compiled and submitted by them to the Texas Medical Board. MCS International will also be submitting its own written complaint (snail-mail) to the Texas Medical Board in full support of Dr Rea.

Ok, but why is this matter being raised on Gillian McCarthy’s News/Campaign page on our site? Because Gillian has been helped a lot by Dr Rea in the past and has nothing but the greatest respect for Dr Rea. Having learned of his present difficulties, she has asked for this matter to be included on her own News/Campaign page with us.

Please do what you can to support Dr Rea. Remember that without people of this calibre the devastation to health caused by Environmental Illnesses is very likely to continue relentlessly.

Towards a toxin free future...
